Seattle Pacific University's College of Business and Technology is recognized for its academic quality, outstanding faculty, small class sizes with flexible scheduling options, and its faith-based commitment to ethics and serving the common good.

Our dynamic urban location also opens doors to unique learning and internship opportunities. There's no place like Seattle to get connected. Here you'll find an experience that can help change the course of your career — and your life.

Please see the specific program pages for more information about the program's delivery format and eligibility for international student attendance in the U.S. on an F-1 visa.
