The Master of Arts in Teaching (<https://spu.edu/academics/school-of-education/graduate-programs/masters-programs/masters-of-arts-in-teaching/>) (MAT) combines Washington Residency Teaching Certification (<http://www.k12.wa.us/certification/teacher-certificate/>) with a Master of Arts in Teaching degree. Candidates in the MAT program become effective teachers by:

- Demonstrating effective and equitable teaching practices.
- Centering instruction on high expectations for student achievement, including culturally responsive teaching practices.
- Recognizing and responding to individual student learning needs.
- Providing clear and intentional focus on subject matter content and curriculum.
- Fostering and managing a safe, positive, and inclusive learning environment.
- Using multiple student data elements to modify instruction and improve student learning.
- Communicating and collaborating with parents and the school community.
- Exhibiting collaborative and collegial practices focused on improving instruction and learning.
- Developing professional wellness habits in order to persist and thrive in the teaching profession.

Certification is earned in seven academic quarters or two years. The MAT degree is earned concurrently with certification requirements or in subsequent quarters. Completion of certification courses, internship requirements, and passing program assessments qualifies candidates for a Washington Residency Teacher Certificate. This certificate enables candidates to teach in public and private schools in Washington state.

Internship

Full-time, supervised internship begins in February during the second year. Candidates are paired with a mentor teacher and university field supervisor in a school setting. Additional field-based work includes a 40-hour spring field experience in the first year of the program and a 20-hour autumn field experience beginning the second year of the program.

Candidates and mentor teachers follow a co-teaching model during internship, where responsibility for planning, instruction, management, and assessment is shared. Candidates begin internship with focused observations and progress to independent teaching. Across internship, you will complete assignments designed to maximize learning from field experiences, such as a classroom management plan, internship reflections, lesson plans, a family engagement plan, and program assessments. Internship concludes with you returning control of classroom responsibilities to your mentor teacher.

Completion of the MAT Degree

Candidates earn the MAT degree by completing one graduate-level course, totaling 3 credits. Classes required for the MAT degree are not needed for certification. However, most candidates complete degree requirements along with certification to increase their base salary. Candidates may delay completion of degree requirements for five years following the quarter of admission, as long as active enrollment status is maintained by completing one class every four quarters. Students are required to earn their Residency Teaching Certificate in order to be eligible to earn the Master of Arts in Teaching degree.

Second Master's Benefit

Students admitted to a graduate teacher education master's program (this does not include the ARC program) already holding a graduate degree may qualify for the master's benefit. This means that students may transfer in up to 12 quarter credits from their previous master's degree (assuming it meets eligibility requirements) to apply toward their master's degree at SPU. Students must submit a consent to transfer coursework form to the associate director of graduate programs to earn the benefit. These credits are included in the transfer policy. The combined total of master's benefit coursework and other approved transfer coursework may not exceed one third of the total number of required credits in your program.
