

GE: COMMON CURRICULUM

The Seattle Pacific University General Education program is a Christian Liberal Arts curriculum tailored to SPU's context and students. It has been designed to help students develop competence and character in the service of the common good. Students develop and deepen skills to pursue the path of wisdom and engage the culture with the gospel of Jesus Christ through both core courses (the Common Curriculum) and distribution courses (the Exploratory Curriculum).

The Common Curriculum includes nine required courses. These courses are designed to help you develop critical academic skills, to understand and engage our multicultural and complex world, and to embrace the Christian story as you become biblically and theologically literate.

Each of the courses in the Common Curriculum includes common texts and objectives to ensure common learning. A Senior Capstone course in your major rounds out the Common Curriculum.

¹ To fulfill the Academic Writing requirement, you must earn a grade of C- (1.7) or better in your academic writing course(s).

² If you enter SPU with junior or senior standing, you are required to complete only 5 credits of academic writing. Students who have not completed this requirement through transfer courses may take WRI 1100 Disciplinary Research and Writing Seminar or ENG 3301 Advanced Expository Writing. Approval for these courses is required.

³ If you enter SPU with freshman or sophomore standing (fewer than 90 transferable credits), you must complete UFDN 1000 The Christian Faith, UFDN 2000 Christian Scripture, and UFDN 3100 Christian Theology.

⁴ If you enter SPU with junior or senior standing (90 transferable credits or more), you are required to take only UFDN 3001 Christian Scripture for Transfer Students and UFDN 3100 Christian Theology.

University Colloquium

If you enter SPU as a first-year SPU student, you will begin the Common Curriculum in autumn quarter of your freshman year by taking the one-credit UCOL 1000 University Colloquium¹. The word colloquium means conversation and the University Colloquium is a place where you can enter into our academic community by studying and conversing about an interesting problem or academic topic with a faculty instructor and student peers.

University Foundations

In your first year you will also complete the first of the three¹ required University Foundation courses. The three foundation courses are centered in the foundations of faith.

- In UFDN 1000 The Christian Faith, completed during the freshman year, you study and reflect on the Christian life, how our faith is formed, and what it means to live in Christian community.
- In UFDN 2000 Christian Scripture², completed during the sophomore year, you will study the Bible and how the diverse collections of the Old and New Testaments narrate the story of God's redemption, reconciliation, and restoration of creation.
- In UFDN 3100 Christian Theology, during your junior or senior year, you will learn about the doctrines that are important to Christians and the ways they influence Christian thought and life.

² Students who enter SPU with 90 or more credits complete the upper-division version of this class: UFDN 3001 Christian Scripture for Transfer Students.

Academic Writing

The first year is rounded out by our two academic writing (WRI) seminar courses.

- WRI 1000 Academic Inquiry and Writing Seminar, taught by English faculty, provides an introduction to academic inquiry. Its central purpose is to immerse you in the types of reading, writing, and critical thinking that will be required of you as a university student. Students must earn a minimum C- (1.7) in this course in order to fulfill the WRI 1000 Academic Inquiry and Writing Seminar Academic Writing requirement.
- WRI 1100 Disciplinary Research and Writing Seminar, taught by faculty across campus, builds on the skills acquired in WRI 1000 Academic Inquiry and Writing Seminar as you learn to research complex and important questions in a disciplinary context. Students must earn a minimum C- (1.7) in this course in order to fulfill the WRI 1100 Disciplinary Research and Writing Seminar Academic Writing requirement.

University Core

Two additional Core courses, taken after the freshman year, complete the Common Curriculum. These courses look at the intersections of Christian faith with contemporary society and thought.

- UCOR 2000 The Emergence of the Modern Global System explores how the modern global system was formed, with special emphasis on the history and patterns of human inequality that mark today's societies. The course asks how we as Christians should live in a world that is both deeply divided and globally interwoven. You will study how the Christian vision for equality has broken through patterns of injustice, by introducing reconciliation into contexts of inequality.

- UCOR 3000 Faith, Philosophy, and Science explores challenging questions for the Christian faith that arise from science and modern philosophy, while teaching you to articulate responses to such questions in thoughtful, informed, rational, and charitable ways.

Senior Capstone

The Senior Capstone course is a part of each academic major.

If you are admitted to the Professional Studies Program, you follow an alternative curriculum: the Curriculum for Special Programs (<https://catalog.spu.edu/undergraduate/degree-requirements/baccalaureate-degree-requirements/curriculum-special-programs/>). Students in the Honors Program who complete the Honors Liberal Arts major (<https://catalog.spu.edu/undergraduate/interdisciplinary-programs/honors-liberal-arts/>) will fulfill most of their General Education requirements through that major.

If you completed a Direct Transfer Agreement (DTA) (<https://catalog.spu.edu/undergraduate/admissions/transfer-credit-overview/#twoyeardegreestext>) associate's degree or recognized equivalent, in place of the regular General Education curriculum, you are required to complete only UFDN 3001 Christian Scripture for Transfer Students, UFDN 3100 Christian Theology, and the Senior Capstone course in your major—as well as UCOL 1000 University Colloquium, if entering directly from high school.
